An absolute rating system is applied.

DEPARTMENT OF PAINTING

The Department of Painting, which started its education and training in 1983, became institutionalized in a short period of time with its understanding of qualified and alternative art education. In this approach, which is not adopted by the traditional “workshop” system, the entire faculty tries to orient the student in the direction of interest, ability and capacity. In the model which can also be defined as a “private education”, it is the formation of a general art culture that will improve the thinking and perception process of the student. On the other hand, a thought that adopts art as an “interdisciplinary field of practice” becomes increasingly clear. As a result, new, contemporary and experimental grounds are being prepared which are reinforced and diversified on the developing consciousness quality that is made on a solid vision – perception ability.

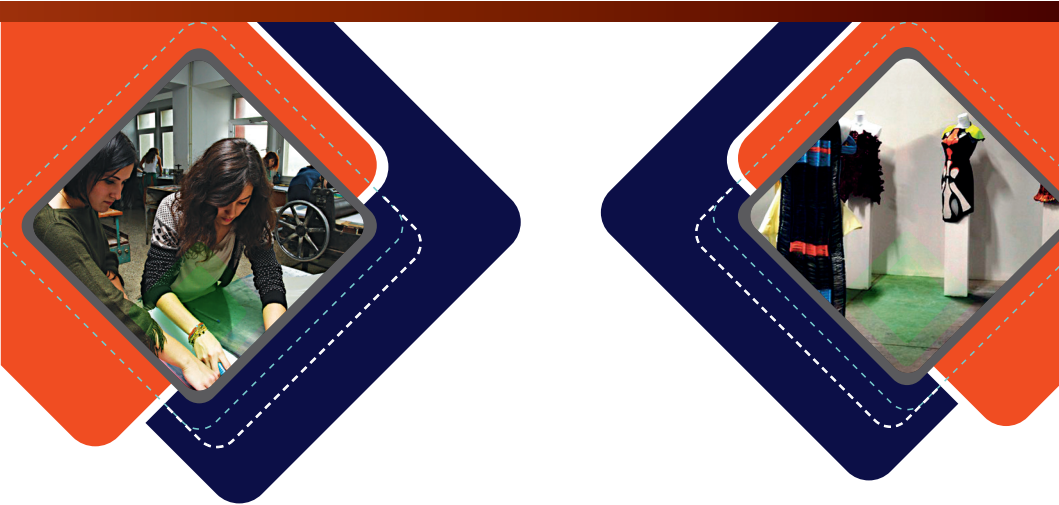

DEPARTMENT OF SCULPTURE

The Sculpture Department, which started its education in 1986, has been continuously renewing itself with the changes it has made in its program ever since its establishment and has been equipped in the field of art world and it aims to educate creative individuals who have a certain level of knowledge, self-confidence and able to catch up with the times. Sculpture Major Education Program is prepared by taking into consideration the qualifications of secondary education in our country with the undergraduate programs of universities in this field in Turkey and in the world. In this program, the course includes a period of examining the problems of composition with both traditional and contemporary materials and techniques, examining the possibilities of composition and expression, questioning the authenticity of sculpture lessons (Sculpture 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8) with equal amounts spreading four years.

DEPARTMENT OF GRAPHIC ARTS

Since 1983, the Department of Graphic Arts has been continuing its undergraduate and postgraduate education. This is the most popular department of Dokuz Eylul University within the Faculty of Fine Arts' plastic arts group. Students from the top of the list among the most intensive applicants are selected for the department in the entrance examinations. Since 2013, the department has been divided into two main branches: "Graphic Design" and "Graphic Imaging and Printing". While focusing on advertising graphics and visual communication design, Graphic Design and Printing Department focuses on illustration, original graphic printing and animation in this department. Upon completion of the four-year undergraduate education (courses and internships), the student is entitled to exhibit and graduate with theoretical advocacy and practical work in a public open jurisdiction where he/she has reached the completion project. In the Graphic Arts Department, the education process is carried out on an individual student basis. The lecturers are familiar with the students and can communicate about their interests.

As a natural anticipation of horizontal and vertical relations in the education process, the goal of the Graphic Arts Department is to train creative artist and designer candidates who perceive, define and solve the graphic design problem in a universal sense.

DEPARTMENT OF TEXTILE AND FASHION DESIGN

Textile and Fashion Design Department was established in 1977 to provide four years of university education equivalent to the degree of undergraduate degree in the field of design. The mission of the department is to build and develop specialized professional skills through a comprehensive training program. There are three special areas in the design program; Textile Design Major, Fashion Clothing Design Major, Fashion Accessories Design Major. The purpose of the courses in the department is to teach the student to develop their own creativity, harmony and meet artistic and commercial requirements. Students are supported by didactic and creative approaches to academic work, cultural lessons, creative work in the design studio, technical lessons, research, and technical visits to businesses, seminars, exhibitions and 75 days internship experience. Visual thinking, designing skills, material knowledge, technical production methods, and art and textile history are focused on. Projects and internships play a key role in all phases of education. Textile designers with a comprehensive and innovative approach are the main objective of our training process. Clear thinking and innovativeness is emphasized. Conceptual and perceptual skills are also being developed and supported.

DEPARTMENT OF CERAMICS

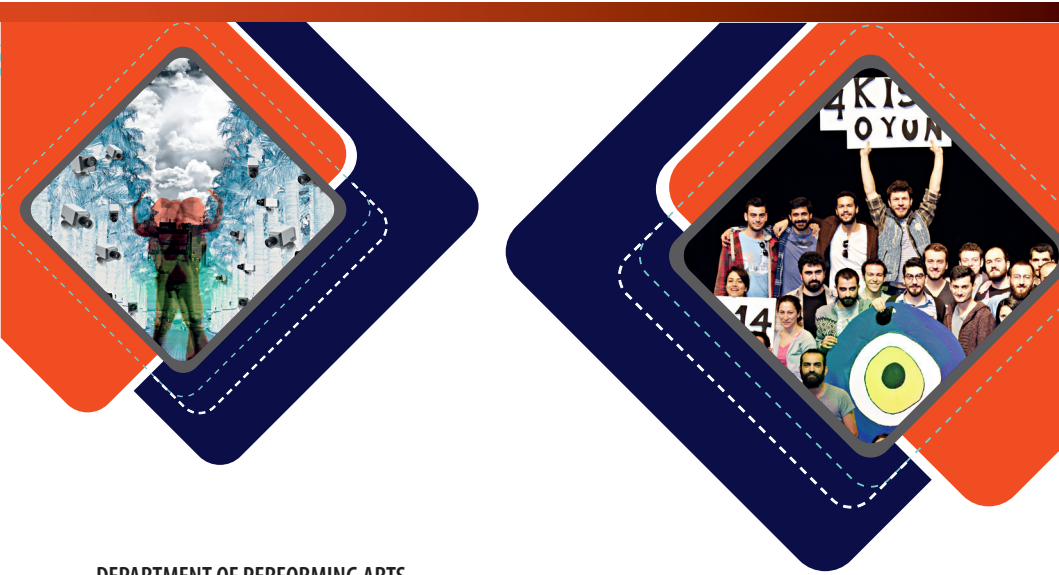

Department of Ceramics started its education and training in 1987. The Ceramics Department's curriculum is based on the undergraduate programs of universities teaching in this field and the secondary education conditions in our country. In the first year of this four-year program, apart from applied courses such as basic art education and ceramics design, theoretical-focused arts and culture courses take place. Workshops and technology lessons started in the first year are intensified and other application lessons such as plaster shaping are added and application is gained. From the third year onwards, education and training for a vocational formation for ceramics with a specific art form is oriented towards branches of professional expertise such as free ceramic design and industrial ceramic design, education and training are concluded with a finishing project.
